NERVOUS EUROPE AWAITS HITLER'S TALK

1,628 CHILDREN IN SCHOOL FOR TERM OPENING

First Day's Enrollment 44 Pupils Above Last Year's Mark

ASSEMBLY SERVICE HELD

Police Chief Warns Drivers That Zone Violators Will Be Prosecuted

Increase of 44 pupils in the Circleville school system was shown Monday with first enrollment reports. The enrollment total was 1628 as compared with 1584 last year and 1582 in 1936 on the first day.

Organization sessions were held Monday with regular classes to get under way Tuesday. High school pupils assembled in the auditorium where new instructors were introduced, home room assignments made and schedules announced. Fifteen minute periods were held to acquaint pupils with their schedules. School was dismissed at 11 a. m.

New members of the high school faculty are J. Wray Henry, principal; Roy M. Black, athletic director; Thomas M. Armstrong, teacher and assistant coach, and Miss Rosemary Jackson, teacher.

Figures by Schools

Enrollment figures announced Monday were: Corwin building, 225 boys, 217 girls, a total of 442; Franklin building, 145 boys, 132 girls, a total of 277; High street building, 115 boys, 85 girls, a total of 200; Walnut building, 92 boys, 83 girls, a total of 175; eighth grade, 47 boys, 64 girls, a total of 111, and high school, 185 boys, 238 girls, a total of 423.

Comparative figures from last year are: Corwin, 435; Franklin, 257; High street, 195; Walnut, 183, and high school and eighth grades combined, 514.

Greatest increase was in the high school building. Last year the high school and eighth grade enrollment was 514 as compared with 534 this year.

McCready Voices Warning

The opening of school brought a traffic warning from Police Chief William McCready. "Anyone exceeding the speed limit in the school zones will be arrested," he said. He warned pupils riding to school in cars that the department would not tolerate cars being "jammed" with youngsters or permit them to ride on the running boards.

PERSONS INTERESTED IN CHORAL SOCIETY INVITED TO MEETING TUESDAY EVE

All persons, whether residents of Circleville or Pickaway county, who are interested in organization of a Choral Society are urged to attend a meeting at 8 p. m. Tuesday in The Daily Herald offices.

Tears, Sighs Too, Mark First Day Away From Mother for Many City Children

By LYALL CRYDER

Did you notice extra humidity and queer sounds not unlike faint static Monday morning. To relieve your questioning minds, this was the day when more than 100 little Johnnies and Susies were off to school for the first time and the tears and sighs of the fond mothers caused the seeming atmospheric disturbances. For the first time these small people started out alone, entering wide-eyed and puzzled on their great adventure in education.

Until today, the parents were the guiding stars in their lives, the ones who were able to answer the myriad questions each child asks in his early years. Before many days these same parents are due for a jolt as their offspring calmly announces "Teacher Says" and states her opinion as the last word on any subject.

While a mother regrets losing the cherished baby for so many hours of the day it is with real pleasure she watches the development of the child through association with others.

Mother love is so protecting and enfolding that it really benefits a child to be thrown on its own resources for a few hours each day. It develops self-reliance, for a teacher with 40 or more youngsters to direct cannot give the con-

HUNGARY'S wonder baby, 5-month-old Vera Klein, is pictured at Budapest with her mother, as she coos an intelligent eye at the camera. She earned the wonder baby title by beginning to talk at the age of four months, and now, at five months, can carry on an intelligent conversation, to the great bafflement of doctors and child experts.

CAPTAIN, 27 MEN QUIT STEAMER, LOST IN BLAZE

HONG KONG, Sept. 12.—(UP)—The captain and crew of 27 men abandoned the steamship Iloilo early today when efforts to halt a fire which destroyed the vessel's superstructure failed.

The 560 ton Iloilo, with a cargo of lubricating oil from Shanghai, took fire last night. Despite efforts of two fireboats, the flames could not be checked.

Captain J. Ferrer, a Filipino, said his officers prevented a panic aboard the vessel when the Chinese crew attempted to rush the lifeboats.

Third officer D. Fuller, a Scot, received minor injuries to his legs. He said the superstructure of the Iloilo was destroyed, but that the vessel was not damaged below decks.

The second officer, J. Andrews, an American, was not injured.

'AMOS' TO GO ON AIR FROM HOSPITAL BED

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 12.—(UP)—Freeman Gosden, the Amos of the radio team of Amos and Andy, will perform his regular broadcast tonight while he lies in a hospital room at Cedars of Lebanon hospital.

Gosden went to the hospital Saturday and underwent a minor operation. Physicians said that while his condition was such that he would be able to make the broadcast, he would have to remain in the hospital several days for observation.

OHIO MISS WINS TITLE; NO. 2 GIVEN MORE ATTENTION

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—(UP)—Earl Carroll, the girl show man, and Nils T. Granlund, night club impresario, brought Miss America No. 2 to town today, announcing indignantly that she should have won the crown awarded to Miss Ohio at the National beauty pageant at Atlantic City.

Miss Ohio, who is Marilyn Meseke, 21, formerly of Columbus and now of Marion, is Miss America by virtue of having received first place in the pageant. She remained in Atlantic City today to enjoy her new laurels.

Miss America No. 2 will be made the official pretender to Miss Ohio's honors by Carroll and Granlund tonight. They will crown her in a hotel ball room and give her another cup. She is Miss California, or Claire Jones, 19, of Los Angeles, and was runner-up to Miss Ohio at Atlantic City Saturday night.

Miss Meseke is a blonde dancing teacher in Marion. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Meseke. Her sister, Dorothy, of Columbus, also has been entered in several beauty contests.

EAGLES AT WORK

Four rooms on the rear of the F. O. Eagles home, E. Main street, are being razed in preparation for the construction of a new addition. The addition will join the present building on the rear. Officials said the contract for construction of the addition has not been awarded.

OHIO HIGHWAY OFFICE DRAFTS HUGE PROJECT

Improvement, Construction Program Costing Many Millions Discussed

PLANS REMAIN SECRET

12 Employees Begin Work On Location And Design; Start Set Jan. 1

COLUMBUS, Sept. 12.—(UP)—A gigantic federal-state road construction and improvement program, the cost of which may hit the $15,000,000 mark, today was being planned secretly by state highway department officials.

Although the vast program, to be financed jointly with state and Public Works administration funds, is nearly ready for submission to PWA authorities, highway department officials remained silent on its nature and scope.

From State Highway Director John Jaster, Jr., however, it was learned that the program would be submitted to L. A. Boulay, head of the PWA in Ohio, before the end of the week.

Deadline for filing for PWA funds is Sept. 30 and since federal authorities have adopted the policy of allotting funds on a "first come, first served basis," each day's delay in submitting the state's requests will reduce its chances of obtaining a large allocation.

Employees Assigned

With this in mind, 12 employees of the highway department's bureau of location and design were assigned today to work on the program.

"How much the state will ask for is problematical," Jaster said "it may be $5,000,000 or it may be $10,000,000. That remains to be decided."

If the program receives federal approval, the PWA will furnish 45 cents of each dollar spent, with the state's share to come from the department's improvement and maintenance funds.

Actual work on the program, if approved by PWA, must start before Jan. 1. Many of the projects which are to be spotted throughout the state, probably will not be undertaken until next year, although contracts could be awarded this year.

HITLER'S MOVE FAILS TO WORRY ITALY'S CHIEF

ROME, Sept. 12.—(UP)—Rome, unlike the other major capitals of Europe, showed little or no official concern today over the European situation.

Neither newspapers nor Fascist leaders evidenced any signs of believing that Europe stands on the brink of war. The fact that Premier Benito Mussolini and his son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, were out of the city was offered as proof that the Italian government takes a lighter view of the situation than does official London and Paris.

Mussolini is vacationing at his Summer castle, Rocca delle Caminate. Reports reaching the capital were that life continues at a normal pace throughout Italy without a single sign of unusual military activity.

FLORIDA WOMAN CHARGED WITH SHOOTING AIRPLANE

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 12.—(UP)—Police held Mrs. Sophonia Jones, 66, in jail today on a charge of shooting down an airplane.

Mrs. Jones, according to officers, discharged a shotgun at a plane piloted by Laurie Young as it flew low over her home near the municipal airport.

Young, shot through the hand, brought his ship down without accident. His passenger, Buddy Anderson, was not hurt.

Swiss Ready to Wreck German, French Roads

Peaceful Nation Completes Final Stage Of Plan To Prevent Country's Use As Corridor For War

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 12.—(UP)—Mines at all points on the Swiss frontier were loaded with explosives at noon today on order of the military department, so that in case of emergency, railroads and roads between Germany and France could be blown up.

This was the final stage in the preparation of Switzerland's little army to repel at whatever cost, any effort to use Switzerland as a corridor for foreign troops.

Swiss army authorities were closely watching developments in neighboring countries. Although the Swiss army had not been mobilized there were greater numbers of citizens under arms than normally.

Tiny Republic Braces Itself For Hitler's Speech In Nuremberg

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 12.—(UP)—Czechoslovakia, a polyglot republic of 15,000,000 people, braced itself today for the expected shock of Adolf Hitler's speech at Nuremberg.

The turbulent week-end in which fights and other disorders marked the increasing ill feeling between Czechoslovaks and partisans of the Sudeten German minority party, increased tension.

The atmosphere was one of determination, so far as Czechs were concerned, to fight if necessary to keep the nation intact. People were trying on gas masks in their homes; they were hoarding food; many feared that within the week a war might start which would ruin if not almost obliterate their ancient cities. Yet there was no tendency to yield.

There was anxiety among minorities as well. Many Germans—if not all—realize that in event of war, Sudeten Germany would be the first battle ground and that whatever might happen afterward their area would be ruined.

As for the Sudeten Germans in

HINES LOTTERY TRIAL DELAYED SEVERAL HOURS

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—(UP)—Opening of the fifth week of the trial of Tammany Leader James J. Hines on lottery conspiracy charges was delayed several hours today while Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora weighed a defense motion for a mistrial.

Judge Pecora was closeted in his chambers most of the morning and was understood to be in conference with District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey and Lloyd P. Stryker, chief of defense counsel who made the motion for mistrial in the closing minutes of Saturday's session. Pecora spent the week-end studying memoranda submitted by both sides on the motion.

TRIPLE SLAYER ESCAPES POSSE IN MINNESOTA

DEER RIVER, Minn., Sept. 12.—(UP)—Harry Yers, 17, sought in connection with a triple murder, escaped today from a posse of almost 100 men who had surrounded a haystack where he was believed hiding.

Yers apparently slipped through the police lines shortly before dawn, while Sheriff Elmer Madison of Itasca county was awaiting reinforcements from St. Louis county.

Madison and several other men advanced on the haystack, they found Yers gone. He was believed armed with a .30-30 rifle, the weapon used in the slaying Sunday of his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Yama, and his 25-year-old foster-sister, who also had been adopted by the Yamas.

Madison at once began a search of the wooded county along both sides of the Mississippi river South of Deer river.

FIVE COLUMBUS YOUTHS INJURED IN AUTO WRECK

Five Columbus youths were cut and bruised early Monday when the auto in which they were riding failed to make a curve and overturned in a ditch on Route 23 just north of the Hartman farm.

Those hurt were William Sullivan, 18, 706 Lazelle street; Donald Sleight, 18, 993 Reinhard avenue; William Berry, 18, 1092 E. 21st avenue; Steven Reshan, 20, 271 E. Moler street, and Russell Merchant, 20, 916 S. Front street. Sleight, in Mercy hospital, was reported in a fair condition. The condition of Sullivan was good. The other three were released after treatment.

NAZI FUEHRER PREPARES FOR VITAL SPEECH

German Leader Expected to Rap Britain for Intimating It Would Stand Beside France in Case of Czech Invasion

ALL NATIONS READY FOR WARFARE

Prague Informs London That It Will Not Accept Plebiscite; Belgians, Swiss May Blast International Roads

BY UNITED PRESS

Europe, armed for war, waited today for a fateful word from Adolf Hitler.

Foreign observers predicted today that in his speech on foreign policy tonight at Nuremberg Fuehrer Hitler would attack the Czechoslovak government and show plainly his resentment of a British government intimation that it would support France if she defended Czechoslovakia against a German attack.

It was understood that at one time Hitler had completed his speech, then he heard of the British inspired statement. Now, it was understood, he was holding open the Czechoslovak portion of it until the last possible moment in order to watch developments.

He worked on the speech at intervals between two army and air force displays on this last, dramatic day of the Nazi party annual rally.

At one show, the air force brought out for the first time its new Messerschmidt "110" planes, graceful two motored fighters armed with two air cannon and reported to resemble the United States "Airacudas."

Return Home Scheduled

It was predicted that Hitler would leave for his mountain retreat at Berchtesgaden tonight or tomorrow, to await international reaction to his speech.

Britain and France, like Germany, were enmeshed in a dispute which has grown like a rolling snowball and peace or war hung on whether either side could afford to draw back, having gone so far.

War was in the air. Millions talked of nothing else. Every country worked feverishly to protect itself if war comes.

The British cabinet, having told Hitler that if he invades Czechoslovakia, Britain will fight with France, discussed final arrangements for naval, military and aerial warfare.

Reliable informants said that certain key air force men had been recalled from leave and that leave generally, even usual week-end liberty, has been restricted, so that a greater than normal percentage of air force personnel would be on duty at all times.

Plebiscite Turned Down

Czechoslovakia, determined to fight rather than submit to German encroachment, informed Britain in decisive terms that she will not stand for a plebiscite.

France made every last-minute preparation for possible war. More troops poured back of the Maginot line facing Germany. Citizens sent their families to the interior and some began withdrawing funds from banks in the frontier districts.

VALLEE SHOULD REPLACE FARLEY AS DEM LEADER

BALTIMORE, Me., Sept. 12.—(UP)—Stumping for Democratic gubernatorial nominee Louis Brann, Rudy Vallee proved a bigger political drawing card than James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee.

Three times as many people turned out yesterday to hear the radio crooner as greeted Farley when he came here 10 days ago to boom F. Harold Dubord, second district congressional candidate.

Two Bridge Projects May
Aid Lewis; Probers
In Sunday Session

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 12—(UP)—President Roosevelt's political prestige, damaged by South Carolina Democrats and soon to be tested in Georgia and New York, is on trial today in Maryland's primary. The issue here is conservative Democrat versus New Dealer.

Simultaneously, in an early general election, Maine's voters are determining whether the state's officialdom and its three-man delegation to the house of representatives shall remain Republican. Major Democratic victories in Maine today practically would underwrite another Democratic landslide in November.

But the day's political explosions are expected from Maryland. President Roosevelt is backing Rep. David J. Lewis, a 60-year-old liberal leader, to win Democratic senator nomination from Sen. Millard E. Tydings, 48-year-old veteran of the World War who served two terms in the house before going to the senate in 1927.

Investigators Meet

Senate campaign investigators ignored tradition in Washington to meet on the Sabbath in judgment of last minute Maryland charges and counter charges. Chairman Morris Sheppard, D., Tex., announced that the committee had found that M. Hampton Magruder, Baltimore collector of internal revenue, had violated "the spirit" of the civil service act by announcing and explaining to some of his employees that he was for Lewis, and why. Other new charges from both sides were found to be unsubstantiated.

Some observers believed Mr. Roosevelt had made a last minute bid for Lewis votes with a BWA order to give two big Maryland bridge projects "right of way." He visited a proposed Chesapeake bay bridge site last week in a campaign journey among southern and eastern Maryland communities.

Adverse critics of the New Deal also read week-end political importance into announcement of a $53,000,000 two year road build-

Roosevelt, With His Son James, Watching Europe

ROCHESTER, Minn., Sept. 12—(UP)—President Roosevelt divided his attention today between the condition of his eldest son, James, and the critical international situation, both of which were causing him deep concern.

Although he spent most of his time in St. Mary's hospital at Mayo clinic, where James underwent an operation yesterday for removal of a stomach ulcer, he took time to study reports of the latest European developments, sent him by Secretary of State Cordell C. Hull.

Mr. Roosevelt and White House attaches maintained a studious silence on foreign affairs but close friends indicated that he was watching trends with the greatest interest, even to the exclusion of national politics—enlivened today by the Maryland primary in which the prestige of the New Deal is at stake.

Ulcer Not Malignant
Mr. Roosevelt was cheered by the findings of physicians that the ulcer, had been non-malignant and counted on the superb physical condition of his son to pull him through.

He and Mrs. Roosevelt, and James' wife, Betsy, visited at the hospital twice yesterday and again last night. He said he would remain in Rochester until he was convinced that James was "out of the woods," which may be another 48 or 72 hours.

Dr. Howard K. Gray of the Mayo staff, who performed the operation, said James' condition was good and that he was recovering "satisfactorily." James was troubled by an attack of hiccoughs when his father arrived at his bedside last night. "What are they giving you?" the President asked. "Carbon dioxide," James replied. "If they knew us they'd give you bread-soda," the President said. (Bread-soda is a home remedy for hiccoughs.) Then he remarked: "I understand the doctors had a tough time getting through your old rowing muscles." James, like his brother, Franklin, rowed in the Harvard university varsity shell.

To Remain Three Weeks
Dr. Gray notified the President that James' blood-pressure, pulse and respiration were virtually normal. He said that young Roosevelt will be up in 13 or 14 days provided there are no complications but would have to remain in the hospital for at least three weeks. He said that the next five days will be the period during which any possible complication might develop.

After assuring himself of James' progress, the President returned to the special train which is serving as his hotel while here. Dr. Gray said that the ulcer, which was one and one-fifth inches in diameter, was of the penetrating type and eventually would have perforated the wall of the stomach. The operation, which had been scheduled for today, was advanced 24 hours so that the President could spend more time with his son. It was performed a short time after the President had arrived and given his consent. Young Roosevelt was on the operating table an hour and forty-five minutes and was under anesthesia the entire period. Stephen T. Early, the President's secretary, said the President had been particularly worried for fear surgeons would find a cancerous condition.

"The result," Early said, "has relieved him tremendously." The President while in Rochester has with him Harry Hopkins, W.P.A. administrator, who underwent an operation for ulcers at Mayo clinic about 10 months ago. They were visited last evening by Governor Elmer Benson, Farmer-Laborite of Minnesota, who is a candidate for re-election and who last week was a caller at the Summer White House in Hyde Park. Benson, however, called in his capacity as the state's executive and politics was taboo.

Another visitor was Lawrence Wood Robert, secretary of the Democratic national committee, who is at the Mayo clinic for a routine check-up.

There's no question about it—a city has more advantages for the business man than a small town, but that don't mean that the city man is any smarter than his country cousin. Some years ago, an advertising man in a city made himself famous and rich because he suddenly discovered that it pays to advertise and a business should keep its name before the public all the time.

Forty years before that, the editor of the Press Argus, down home, tried to get John Hink to advertise his furniture store and John Hink says, "I don't have to advertise it—I've been here 30 years and everybody knows I'm in business." The editor says, "Yes, John, but our church has been standing there over one hundred years, but they still ring the bell every Sunday!"

Duke May Return Home For Relative's Funeral

LONDON, Sept. 12—(UP)—The Duke of Windsor may return from exile to attend the funeral of his cousin, and favorite relative, Prince Arthur of Connaught, sources close to Buckingham palace told the United Press today.

The Prince died in his sleep at 3:30 a. m. of a gastric ailment. He was one of the least known members of the royal family, but was an intimate friend of the former King. They were brother Masons.

Palace sources said the Duke undoubtedly would desire to return for the funeral. The royal family would wish it or at least would put no obstacles in the way, it was said. No mention was made of whether his Duchess, could return with him without objection.

The chief obstacle might be the government, which might fear that the Duke's visit would undo in part its extensive efforts to enhance the popularity of King George and Queen Elizabeth. However, the government could decide it was a personal family problem. Palace sources said the Duke was more attached to the 55-year-old Prince Arthur than to any other relative except the immediate family. The Duke was at his villa at Antibes, France, where he was notified of his death.

The Prince was the only son of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught. The Duke of Connaught is a son of Queen Victoria. In 1913 Prince Arthur married his cousin, Princess Alexandra, Duchess of Fife in her own right and co-heiress to the millions of the late Duke of Fife, her father. She was at his bedside when he died. They had one son, the Earl of MacDuff, 24. He will not change his title until after the death of his grandfather, the aged Duke.

Immediate treatment of his leg did not have the desired success.

TWO BICYCLISTS FIND $30,000 TAKEN BY PAIR

COLUMBUS, Sept. 12—(UP)—The $30,000 in state warrants taken from a bank messenger in a holdup at the entrance of the Ohio capitol grounds Saturday was recovered 24 hours later by a girl and boy who were riding their bicycles on a country road near Columbus.

The warrants, taken from Richard Eckstein, 19, by two bandits, were worthless as loot because they bore the bank's endorsement. The pouch in which they were carried was found on Dublin road by Virginia Holcomb, 13, and Dean Walcutt, 13.

DELEGATE AND ALTERNATE NAMED FOR CHURCH MEET

E. O. Crites was named delegate, and Marvin Steely, alternate, by the session of the Presbyterian church, Sunday, to accompany the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey, pastor, to the meeting Tuesday of the Columbus Presbytery in First Presbyterian church, Lancaster.

CELEBRATION SEPT. 18
Recent announcement concerning the Mt. Pleasant centennial celebration and annual reunion of the Rectors, Wiggins, Terwilliger and Rose families should have listed the date as Sunday, Sept. 18, instead of Sept. 11.

ROUMANIA MAY BATTLE GERMANY IN CASE OF WAR

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Sept. 12—(UP)—A statement made by Former Premier Nicola Jorga, adviser to King Carol, was interpreted by responsible quarters today as an intimation that Roumania would join the Democratic powers in the event of war.

Without mentioning Germany Jorga in an address at Abrud referred to "hatred and brutality" by which unjust demands are made and the "banners of death and destruction waved in the hands of fanatics."

"What has been built by so much honest labor since the butchery of the World War is now threatened by destruction," he said. "No words of malediction in any language are strong enough to brand those who would reopen new carnage."

"Whatever may happen we are ready to resist any attacks x x x our friends, as well as our enemies will find us unanimous and unshakable."

SHERIFF HUNTS SALESMAN FOR MARKER FRAUD

Circleville Woman Third To Inform Sheriff Of Monument Sale

Another case of a widow being the victim of a monument fraud was reported Saturday night to Sheriff Charles Radcliff.

No delivery has been made on a monument sold to Mrs. Elizabeth Meeker, E. Main street, the sheriff was told. He said the monument was to be delivered Sept. 10. Some jewelry had been given as security on the monument, Radcliff said.

This case is the third in Pickaway county in which widows have been victims of an alleged fraudulent salesman. Other sales were made in Five Points and Darbyville.

Sheriff Radcliff has been seeking to learn the license number of the car used by the salesman. Anyone visited by the salesman, who knows the license number of his car, is asked to contact the sheriff.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Judge Hardy's Family embarks on another amusing adventure in "Love Finds Andy Hardy," which opened at the Cliftona Theatre yesterday for a three day engagement.

The entire family participates in the fourth of a series of pictures which has rapidly won a place in the hearts of film audiences.

Lewis Stone is seen as Judge Hardy, Mickey Rooney is his son, Andy. Cecilia Parker is the daughter, Fay Holden the mother and Betty Ross Clarke the aunt.

In addition, Judy Garland makes her debut in the series in this picture, singing three songs and playing a grown-up role for one night. Lana Turner makes her appearance as one of Mickey's three girl friends. Ann Rutherford is back again as his "steady" girl.

AT THE GRAND

Charlie McCarthy's make-up is the result of ten months of experimentation, Edgar Bergen reveals.

Bergen and Charlie are starred with Adolphe Menjou, Andrea Leeds and George Murphy in Universal's "Letter of Introduction," now at the Grand Theatre.

"Charlie was first painted with ordinary house-paint," Bergen stated. "As he moved up in society, he needed a more convincing job on his face. But when he came to Hollywood, we experimented nearly a year before we found a combination that would suit the cameras."

Bergen was faced with the problem of finding a paint that would not reflect the light.

"We tried all kinds of paints and lacquers," Bergen revealed. "Finally we mixed powdered pumice with paint to get a soft skin texture." "I may be stony-faced, but I'm tender hearted," McCarthy chirped.

Jackie Moran is the leading figure of the New Circle theatre's "Barefoot Boy." One of the most popular of the younger players of the screen, he was Huck Finn in "Adventures of Tom Sawyer" and Deanna Durbin's boy friend in "Mad About Music."

Postmaster at Ashville Reveals August Records

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Ashville, Phone 79

Postmaster Stanley Smith gave us a partial report of the business transacted at the local postoffice for the month of August just past, 1938. It follows:

Number of money orders 421
Cash paid for orders $3617.51
Stamp sales $315.81
Cash to acct. office $3241.76
Fore same month 1937
Number of money orders 444
Cash paid for orders $3716.71
Stamp sales $301.46
Cash to acct. office $3451.10

Ashville — We were reminded Sunday by another pawpaw friend or feaster, that it wouldn't be long now until this favorite 'possum food will be ripe and ready for the feast. The boys who know the good places where they grow to size and quality, are counting on seeing that no member of The Court goes hungry for this fine, if you like it, fruit.

Ashville — Billy Cain who moped around for several days, a few weeks ago, with a bad pain where the appendix stays, had the offending member removed and is about well again, in the store Saturday, and will be back to school before so long. And we are guessing the best news part of this appendix removal is, that the "youngster" surgeon who did the removing, was employed once as an assistant to his father in this same Cain store building. And we are telling Billy that he can do as well if he just thinks so. We are telling you about Doctor Elliot Peters, one among the prominent surgeons in the Capital City. And we are all proud of this "boy" Elliot.

Ashville — Sometime this week Dick Peters, wife and little daughter, Marian Elizabeth, will remove to West Union, Adams county from Ashville. They will temporarily make their home there while Mr. Peters as engineer, is in charge of the waterworks and sewerage installation. This will require the greater part of a year, Mr. Peters told us. Burgess & Niple, the firm which installed the Ashville works, has the contract at West Union. These same engineering people are doing the preliminary work toward a waterworks system for New Holland.

Ashville — The Peer family reunion was held Sunday at the home of Dan Runkle in Walnut township. Around forty were in attendance. A basket dinner was served at the noon hour. It was one of those good social affairs which was enjoyed by all, so they told us.

Ashville — Mrs. Maude Logsdon Hines has been quite sick for the last few days threatened with appendicitis. . . . The canning factory workers we contacted yesterday told us that this week would in most parts put a finish to the corn pack.

Kingston — Mrs. A. E. Gower and Mrs. Clarence Anderson, (who recently moved to Frankfort) entertained a group of their friends, on Wednesday evening, at a dinner bridge. The dinner was served at the Ada Dresbach party home. Following this all repaired to the Gower home where contract was enjoyed. Those present were—Mrs. A. Dane Ellis, Mrs. H. E. Yaple, Mrs. Carrie Holderman, Mrs. Nelson Sutherland, Mrs. W. R. Sunderland, Mrs. Dennis H. Dreisbach, Miss Mildred Holderman, Mrs. William McAlphin, Mrs. May McCullough and Mrs. Edwin H. Artman. The prizes were first to Mrs. McCullough, second to Miss Holderman and the traveling to Mrs. Sutherland.

Kingston — Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jones Jr. (Althea Jane Hettinger) moved this week to Columbus, after passing the Summer at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hettinger.

Kingston — Mrs. Lucy Schooley Mr. Paul Andrews and Miss Mary Andrews accompanied their niece Sandra Sue Rhoades, when she returned home after a month's visit with them in Columbus.

RADIO NEWS IN BRIEF

Cecil B. DeMille, producer-narrator of the CBS Radio Theatre, will become an actor for the first time in 25 years when he takes a thespian role in "Seven Keys to a Baldpate" starring Jack Benny and Mary Livingstone on the Sept. 26 broadcast.

Ron Gamble, youngest announcer at WJR in Detroit, has been selected to succeed Truman Bradley as commentator on the Sunday Evening Hour which resumes over CBS Sept. 11.

Mary Pickford had to cancel her scheduled appearance on "If I Had the Chance" for Sept. 9 in order to rush to Hollywood to be at the bedside of her ailing husband, Buddy Rogers.

A society family program is being built for a sponsored spot this Fall. Esme O'Brien, 18-year-old debutante, and her mother, Mrs. Esmond O'Brien, social registerite, will headline the skits. The series will dramatize the life of a deb from childhood through extensive schooling and on to the eventual "coming out" party.

Ben Bernie and Walter Winchell may make their third picture together this season. Vehicle under consideration is "Blessed Event."

Andre Kostelanetz and his bride, Lily Pons, arrived aboard the Havana Special at the Pennsylvania Station from their South American honeymoon at the early hour of 6:40. Despite the fact that they had intended keeping their arrival secret, more than 3,000 fans learned about it and jammed the terminal to greet them.

TIME AND GERMANY

A QUESTION often asked these days is what good it does for the European nations to play for time against war. If times gives Great Britain and France a better chance to prepare, does it not also give the dictatorship countries the same time and the same advantage? And therefore prolong the war when it does come?

The belief seems to be that time and preparation are in favor of the democracies, that Hitler cannot maintain his place and prestige much longer. There are said to be signs of internal cracking in Germany. If war can be held off a few months or a year longer, the chances are that Germany will go to piece inside its own walls. And no war will be necessary.

If this be true, time is indeed important.

RESTORING LIBERTY

IN the year 1886 the Statue of Liberty on Bedloe's Island in New York harbor was completed and opened to the public. It was the gift of France—from the people of one liberty-loving nation to another.

Since then, the Goddess of Liberty, standing so straight in her bronze robes, holding her torch for all to see, has become a sort of symbol of America—the first thing most travelers glimpse which seems to them characteristic of this land of the free.

But even Liberty has to have upkeep attention once in a while. This year the Goddess is getting what is described as a thorough reconditioning, at a cost of $250,000. The seven spikes in her crown have been taken down and the iron which supported them, found to be rusted through, has been replaced. The torch—so large that its rim is a balcony on which several people can stand and see a magnificent view of sea and water—will also be thoroughly examined and necessary parts restored.

The little island, twelve acres in extent, on which the statue stands, is to be increased to fifteen acres by the building of a new stone seawall and parapet around the northwest end.

In short, Liberty is to be completely examined and overhauled and given a new lease on life.

It is time the job was done. The bronze lady of the harbor stands for the liberty of France and of America—that liberty of which eternal vigilance is the price.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.

PURGE'S PURPOSE DISCLOSED

WASHINGTON — The day after the President returned from his Maryland sortie, an old friend of conservative leanings asked him why he was "taking such political risks" by trying to unseat strongly entrenched anti-New Deal Democrats.

The friend said he could understand the President's personal resentment at these enemies, but he questioned the wisdom of chancing a split in the Democratic Party by waging open war upon them.

Roosevelt's reply affords an illuminating insight into the reasoning and motives behind his dramatic "purge" crusade. It reveals clearly that 1940 looms very large in his thoughts.

The President began by emphasizing that there was absolutely nothing personal in his campaign against Senators George and Tydings, Representative John O'Connor and other Old Guard Democrats whose re-election he has opposed. As proof of this he cited his speeches against George and Tydings.

He pointed out that in the Georgia speech, he centered his fire squarely and directly on George, for whom he has the warmest affection and highest regard. But in Maryland, he said nothing about Tydings, whom he frankly dislikes and distrusts.

If it were merely a matter of personal spleen, the President continued, there were many less "arduous" ways in which scores could be settled. But the real purpose of the "so-called purge" was to force every Democrat holding office, elective or appointive, to show his true colors on the New Deal.

PARABLE OF GIDEON

If there is one thing his Administration has proved, the President declared, it is that the old party labels no longer mean anything. A George or Tydings Democrat is no different from a Vandenberg Republican. Under the skin they are blood brothers.

With world conditions what they are, Roosevelt told his friend, it is urgently vital for the welfare of the Nation and the preservation of its democracy that "political dissembling" no longer be possible for men seeking public office. Conservatives should run as conservatives and liberals as liberals.

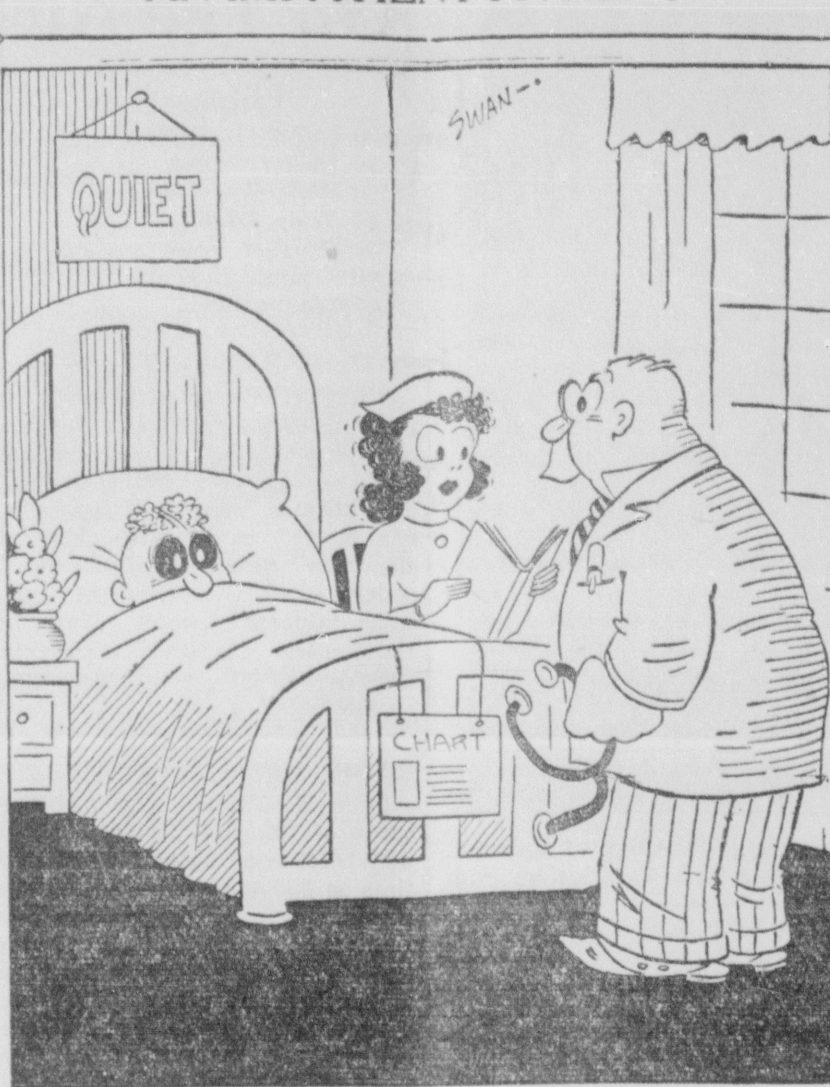

He said it was his intention to draw such lines in 1940. That is why he is applying the acid test to Democratic office-holders now. It is to make them show, clear-cut and unmistakable, on which side of the fence they stand.

Basically, the President explained, it was only of secondary moment to him whether the various purge fights are won or lost. In the larger strategy they are only preliminary skirmishes to prepare for the decisive battle in 1940.

If there is going to be a fight for control of the Democrat party in 1940, the President intends to see to it that he has a loyal party organization behind him.

He concluded by recalling to his friend the Biblical story of Gideon, and how the Lord told him to choose his warriors by watching how they quenched their thirst at the river.

Respiration, Fundamental Function of Body

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

OXYGEN is the great energizer of the world. We live in a sea of air and we use it every second.

Perhaps the most astonishing adaptation of nature is that we exchange chemicals in the air with the plants. The plants can't get along without carbon dioxide, which is pure waste to us, while we can't get along without oxygen, which is pure waste to the plants.

Respiration as a function of the body is not so simple as it appears. It requires the co-ordinated participation of muscles, lungs, blood, the central nervous system and tissue fluids.

Air goes into the lungs and there comes in contact with the blood cells in the capillaries. Or almost in contact, being separated only by the thin wall of the lung alveolus. The pressure of oxygen inside the alveolus is 100 mm., while that of the venous blood is 40 mm., so the oxygen enters into loose combination with the hemoglobin of the blood. This constitutes external respiration. Then an even more wonderful mechanism occurs when the blood is carried out to the tissues. The value of the hemoglobin or iron pigment of the blood, from a physiological standard, is that its affinity for oxygen is so nicely balanced that in the lungs it becomes 95 per cent saturated, and in the tissues and capillaries can give up as much oxygen as is needed.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Here, again, this process goes on automatically. We breathe just as much as we have to—slowly when sitting still, more rapidly when moving around, with painful frequency when we run a race.

These adjustments are carried out by a very delicate mechanism in the base of the brain called the respiratory center. This center was supposed formerly to occupy a very small amount of space, but studies in our own day indicate it is more diffuse and multiple. At any rate, it is very sensitive to the presence of oxygen and carbon dioxide in the blood. If the oxygen content falls, the center is stimulated to activity, so that the breathing is accentuated and more oxygen is taken in. If the oxygen in the blood is high, on the contrary, the center feels no necessity for rapid breathing and respiration falls to a low level.

Thus we have a paradoxical situation so that if an anesthetist wants to restore a patient to better breathing, he gives carbon dioxide which is a kind of body poison. When enough of this accumulates, the respiratory center is stimulated and the lungs themselves wash all the extra carbon dioxide out and take the oxygen in.

The respiratory center is sensitive to many other influences, however, and is well adapted to regulating this most essential function

POSTPONING TRUMPS

WHETHER to run trumps at once or postpone them, or perhaps not lead them at all, constitutes the main difference between the several styles of play used for suit contracts. Incidentally soundness in this respect frequently marks the difference between weak and strong players. Refraining from trump leads can be as important with some hands as leading them is in others.

North and South ended in a contract of 4-Hearts on this deal. The bidding started with South's 1-heart, which West overcalled with 1-spade; North called 2-Diamonds, last 2-Spades, South 3-Hearts and North 4-Hearts.

South handled the play very badly and was set two tricks. He won the lead of the diamond K with the A and finessed the heart 10, which lost to West's K. The heart 5 was returned and declarer then led the spade J. When West won, he returned his last trump. This was taken by South with the A. He then cashed the spades K and Q, discarding two clubs, but had no way to avoid losing three clubs in his own hand.

Instead of drawing trumps, after winning the first trick, South should have led the spade at once. The spades K and Q would then be used to toss off two clubs in dummy, and while still retaining trumps in dummy, two clubs could have been ruffed.

AFRAID TO MARRY

HELEN WELSHIMER

Written for and Released by
CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Judy Rogers, New York heiress, is looking for a job because her father has been wiped out in a financial crash. When her father goes west with her step-mother, her own mother being abroad and remarried, Judy moves to a small hotel. Heart-broken because Craig Denby, the man she loved, married another girl, she finds solace in the company of Ronald Birrell, brilliant young attorney from Tennessee, who recently joined the firm of her father's lawyers. Afraid of marriage, Judy realizes that is why she lost Craig. When she learns from her best friend, Marjorie, that Craig and Mary, his bride of a few weeks, have separated, Judy calls on Mary and phones Craig in an effort to bring them back together. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 14

IT WAS A normal, friendly conversation such as any two old friends might have that Judy shared with Craig. She pretended that she had called to tell him how much she liked Mary.

"You are lucky, Craig. She's lovely."

"Isn't she, Judy? I knew you would think so, too." He said it reverently, as though he spoke of the Madonna, Easter, or the Christmas star. There were miles of shining wires between the room in which Craig sat, as he talked to Judy and the boudoir at Marjorie's where she lounged on the chaise longue as she talked. There were long strips of street, and acres of buildings, but across their pulsing beat Judy caught that note of worship. Ah, now she knew. Craig did love Mary. But loyalty to an old devotion had caused him to lose her. He had not failed her, Judy. She would not fail him.

She spoke slowly. "Craig, Marjorie told me that Mary believed she married too quickly and should have some time to consider. I know better. I'm sorry."

"Thanks, Judy. Let's forget it, shall we? Maybe Mary grew afraid of her voice. Three days is such a small slice out of a lifetime."

"But you are sure?"

"Absolutely!"

"So is she. Go tell her, Craig. She's so helpless and she loves you so."

"Judy, you are about the grandest person—minus one—who ever lived. No, I'll not make even one exception."

But Craig did not win his suit with Mary. Marjorie, who flew to the coast for two weeks, told Judy about it when she returned. Judy, meantime, had not found a job. She amused herself on rainy days by making sketches. She revamped some of her own clothes. She sold a set of the Encyclopedia Britannica so she could eat.

"They were hard to digest mentally, anyway," she consoled the gap in her book shelves. "A hamburger and some beans will be much easier on my system. Besides, there are always libraries where encyclopedias if there is anything I have to know."

Judy decided, as she talked to Marjorie, that she would go to Mary. If it was over her that this foolish misunderstanding had arisen, it was up to her to right it.

One of her black dresses had been renovated merely because she felt creative. She put it on, and hunted for a provocative rose turban in her hat box. A rose coat, short and fitted, finished the ensemble.

"I'll give Craig back to you, Mary Banner," she said under her breath as she rang Mary's bell. "I'll return him all wrapped up in white tissue paper with a big blue bow on the package. Only, Mary, my dear, I never had him. You don't understand that. He loves you. That's why I'm coming. It's real love, Mary. Grasp it tightly. Lock it up. Love—seldom—lasts."

No, that was not right advice. Love must be free. Free to blow where it would. If there were walls, it would climb them. If there were a gate, it would find the latch. Love was like mercury. If you tried to pick it up, it spread and spread.

"I'm an old friend, that's all."

But if you were contented, it stayed quietly with you.

Mary was in. She had been practicing. Her piano held a scattered array of music. Her lounging pajamas were of a dull rose that grew paler beside the vibrant color of Judy's tam and coat.

Judy never knew, afterward, how she led into the subject of her call. She only knew that presently she was saying:

"Craig loves you so, Mary. He told me about it on the telephone two weeks ago. I thought then he would win you back almost at once. I'm an old friend, that's all."

She mustn't remember that once she had regarded him as the old friend, and he had professed his love for her. That was long ago. Last summer. Before he had met a girl with blue-black hair and dark, hurt eyes and a wistful mouth.

"He married me so swiftly. I never even wondered about it. Then I found out—it was you he had known for such a long time."

"But don't you see, Mary Banner? If there had been love between us we had years to make something happen. Don't let him down. He loves you!"

"You think so?" Mary's dark eyes were shining with tears. "Life isn't any good without him."

"Oh, I know," whispered Judy, but the words strayed in her heart. Not any good at all!

"May I tell you how we met?" Mary asked, as though she wanted a confidante. "I'd like to have you know."

Judy had not thought that she would ever know. Yet here was the answer to all her unasked questions.

"I was with my aunt at this house party. It was a large one and the house was palatial—golf course, tennis courts, swimming pool, verandas along the lake, and tea houses. Even a moon that looked as though it had been polished for the occasion."

"I remember—it was a perfect week-end." Yes, she remembered. It was that week-end she had stayed in town, waiting for Craig to hurry home so she could tell him her mind was made up, her heart at peace.

"The hostess was a queer old lady with a sharp tongue who said just what she pleased. She had a touch of rheumatism so I was having tea alone with her in the library one afternoon—Friday it was—when Craig came, hunting a book. The others were swimming."

Judy nodded. Mary was sweet and sympathetic. It would be she that the eccentric hostess would keep from the water sports.

"Mrs. Cabot—the hostess—looked us both over. Then she told Craig it was high time he married. He said he thought so, too, only . . ."

Judy waited, only her heart asking a question.

"He said that the girl he wanted didn't believe in love and marriage. Then Mrs. Cabot said there were other girls, and asked him why he didn't marry me. All the time we were drinking tall glasses of iced tea. Craig looked at me and smiled and laughed at the idea. He said some nice things, oh, perfunctory, expected ones, of course, but he took me sailing before dinner."

"At first it was all in fun. We tried to fool Mrs. Cabot. Then suddenly it was serious. I couldn't quite believe it. Sometimes, you know, you see a hat or a dress and you know it's been made for you. Maybe you never thought of it but when it comes it's just a thought you don't need to shop any further. It was that way when I met Craig."

"I thought I'd have three days to put away in an album. But he felt that way, too, it seems. I mean he thought he did—"

Her voice trailed away, and a maid came from somewhere and snatched up the softly slumped lamp. "He didn't think anything of it but when it comes it's just a thought you don't need to shop any further. It was that way when I met Craig."

"Oh, it would be so easy, so very easy, to win Craig back. Now she could see how this marriage had happened. He had found Mary sweet and desirable and something had passed for love. Then Judy remembered the cathedral tones in his voice when he spoke of Mary. It had been something less than love at the beginning. But it was love now, full and complete."

She left quickly, Mary's warm gratitude following her.

"I'm so glad you came. I won't doubt him any more. I'll call him now."

Someone spoke Judy's name as she passed through the lobby. (To Be Continued)

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

The recent report by President Roosevelt's commission, appointed to study European relationships between capital and labor, gives the superficial impression that the English system is superior to ours.

Other countries, especially the Scandinavians, remain to be investigated. Britain is as far as the commission has progressed to date.

Anyway it appears that industrial employers and employees on the "tight little island" on an average get along with one another more harmoniously than employers and employees do here.

However, an analysis of the report doesn't bear out the conclusion that the English system is so much better than America's. Seemingly the "systems" are not widely different. Apparently the real difference is that English employerdom, on the one hand, and England's organized workers, on the opposite hand, are mutually more accommodating and cooperative than the two contrasting groups are in the United States.

HAD THEIR BATTLES

Time was when English bosses and their toilers were in as bitter conflict with one another as ever they have been here—and often are now.

For one thing we're a newer country. English capital and labor already have been through a shaking-down process which we still are experiencing, though even here our capital-and-labor troubles are not as violent as once they were.

This statement may be disputed by folk whose memories hark back no farther than late "little steel" clashes at Johnstown, Youngstown and South Chicago.

But I recall the American Railway Union strike in the 1890's. That verged on civil war, with Federal troops in action and President Cleveland and Governor Altgeld of Illinois exchanging ultimatums, almost. And the Homestead steel riots of a generation and a half ago! There was a genuine massacre—not a mere matter of a handful of killings but a battle of creditable military proportions. Even as recently as the early 1920's the railroads and railroadmen had a disagreement which tore the nation wide open.

Today railroad management and railroad labor are as far apart on the wage issue as they were in the 1890's. A strike is being voted on, in fact. Yet nobody actually expects a strike. The threat doesn't upset business. The consensus overwhelmingly is that terms will be reached.

This partly is because of arbitration machinery, but it's more because capital and labor, in the transportation industry, are mutually more civilized than they used to be.

And the coal industry?

The United Mine Workers and the coal owners are on the friendliest kind of relations at present. They're unitedly afraid of the competition of other fuels—oil and gas. And of water power. In the fuel field, capital and labor have a common interest. They plug together.

THEY COMPETE NOW

Of yore the coal owners had no competition to buck. Neither had the railroads.

It was a fight between mine owners and miners; between railroads and railroadmen. Now it's a fight between mine owners and miners, versus gas, oil and water power; between railroad ownership and buses, trucks and aviation, plus the birds who work for them.

Gradually the idea is soaking into the industrial mind that the fight is not intra-industrial but inter-industrial.

Strange to relate, it has soaked into the English mind faster than it has soaked into ours. It isn't that the English system is better than ours; the English psychology is better.

We've had a few handicaps. Anti-union Henry Ford was one. That old chap, when he established a $5 minimum wage in his factories in 1915, was considered a revolutionist. He's rated that as a maximum ever since.

I knew Henry Ford. Tom Girdler never was a patch on him.

Teegardin-Duvall Vows Exchanged Saturday Eve

Church Is Scene of Marriage Ceremony

Mrs. Clinton Bennett Teegardin of Duvall announces the marriage of her daughter, Mary, to Mr. William A. Duvall of Ashville. The wedding was at the St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church of St. Paul, Saturday evening, the Rev. E. H. E. Winterhoff officiating at the ceremony.

The bride's sisters, Mrs. G. E. McVey of Columbus and Miss Grace Teegardin of the home served as matron and maid of honor. Both wore gowns of teal blue slipper satin, made empire style with gold clips at the front. They carried colonial bouquets of small bronze chrysanthemums and Johanna Hill roses.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Paul W. Teegardin, was gowned in ivory velvet fashioned with a yoke of Alencon lace, with square neckline. The skirt was floor length with a modified train and a fingertip veil of ivory net was held in place by a tiny cap. She carried a white prayer book with a small spray of gardenias and shower of lilies of the valley.

Mr. Siebert Duvall of Ashville was best man and the ushers included Mr. Glenn Teegardin, Clarksburg, W. Va.; Mr. Frank Teegardin, Mr. Dwight Teegardin and Mr. G. E. McVay. Paul Warner Teegardin, nephew of the bride, acted as ring bearer. Mrs. Paul Teegardin, sister-in-law of the bride, played the nuptial music before the ceremony.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride, her mother receiving the guests in a gown of mist blue Jacqueline crepe with a corsage of gardenias at her shoulder. Mrs. Duvall, mother of the bridegroom, wore black velvet and gardenias.

The former Miss Teegardin attended Denison university and graduated from Ohio State university, where she was a member of Delta Gamma and Omicron Nu sororities. She is now home economist for the American Sales Co. of Columbus.

Mr. Duvall, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Duvall, of Ashville, attended O. S. U. where he was pledged to Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity. He is now associated with the Columbus Producers Livestock association.

Gray Reunion

For Monday, September 12

MONDAY'S ASTROLOGICAL forecast is for a day of rather conflicting conditions, with many hopes of progress, financial prospects and friendly co-operation, although it may be attended by obstruction, delays, quarrels and vexations. Writings may give concern or be at the root of frustrations, although friendly intervention of elders may be helpful.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of contradictory experiences, with splendid promise for progress and success, but, at the same time, there may be impediments, delays and vexations situations to maneuver satisfactorily and harmoniously. A change of ideas, plans or even environments may prove beneficial, but consultations with elders may help iron out perplexing problems.

A child born on this day may be friendly, just and generous, but its nervous, highstrung and probably irritable nature may make it hard to get along with. Its elders should stand by with wise counsel and true insight and even generosity.

Bulbous Iris

green over winter and as the ground freezes they should be protected with a loose mulch.

These iris get their name from the fact that they grow from bulbs similar to those of the daffodils, only, as show in the Garden-Graph, the iris bulbs are a trifle smaller than those of the daffodils. The bulbs should be planted four inches deep and six to 12 inches apart.

The Dutch iris are the earliest to bloom. They are also easy to grow, needing only plenty of sun. The Spanish iris bloom about two weeks later than the Dutch and are a little smaller in size. They are easy to grow. They like a dry, sunny location. The English iris are the latest bloomers. They have large-size foliage and blooms but require a moist, heavy soil plus sunshine.

Sod edges may be trimmed now and garden beds trued up for the last time this year. Also all your notes of garden changes for next year should be brought up to date before any more plants have disappeared for the season.

CLEANER INSURES WOOL GARMENTS AGAINST MOTH

Announcement has just been made by F. W. Grover, general manager of Fentons Cleaners & Dyers, that hereafter all woolen garments cleaned by this company will be moth-proofed during the cleaning process and insured against moth damage for a period of six months, without additional charge to the customer. This insurance, Mr. Grover states, will be backed by one of the largest insurance companies in North America.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture's Bulletin No. 1353, explains the theory that moth breeding and hatching is seasonal. It concludes that, due to the winter warmth of homes, moth eggs hatch practically every month of the year. It further indicates that permanent moth-proofness has not been perfected, but that impregnation of the treated fabric imparts a moth resistance which is the best protection available. Monite complies with this theory.

It is made a part of the cleaning process and penetrates every fibre of the fabric at the time of cleaning.

Frisch Joins Cochrane, Grimm As Ax Is Swung

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 12.—(UP)—The major leagues were swept clean of the three managers who dominated the 1934-35 baseball pennant picture with the passing today of Frankie Frisch as pilot of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Frisch, who celebrated his 40th birthday only last week, joins Mickey Cochrane and Charley Grimm on the major manager casualty list for 1938. It was Frankie's 1934 National League champion team that won the name of the "Gas-house Gang" by riding over Cochrane's Detroit Tigers in the world series, and it was Black Mike's Tigers that beat Grimm's Cubs four out of six for the world championship in 1935.

While Frisch's release was not entirely unexpected, the manner of its announcement was a surprise. President Sam Breadon gave the news to reporters in the middle of yesterday's game with Pittsburgh. Frisch was in uniform on the first-base coaching line. At the end of the inning, he went through the dugout to the dressing room and began packing.

"I believe a change in managers of the club necessary for 1939," Breadon said. "Frank has been with us longer than any other manager since Branch Rickey. I do not blame him for the condition of the club this year. He has done nothing we can find fault with, and he has been a good manager. He has been paid for the remainder of the season and is leaving the club today so he can be free to negotiate with other clubs seeking managers. Coach Mike Gonzales will run the team for the remainder of the season."

STRONG SQUADS RETAIN PLACES IN PRO LEAGUE

Professional football looked forward to its most profitable season today following certain raising games in five National league cities before nearly 90,000 fans.

Boosters predict that last year's 250,000 attendance will be more than doubled. Four games played yesterday drew 71,000 to add to the 18,000 who saw the Detroit-Pittsburgh opener Friday night.

A crowd of 20,700 saw the Chicago Bears beat the Chicago Cardinals, 16-13, on Jack Manders' last period field goal from the 23 yard line.

Largest crowd was at Philadelphia, where 25,000 saw the Washington Redskins score a 26-23 decision over the Eagles. It was an expensive victory for the Redskins, however, as Slingin' Sam Baugh tore a shoulder muscle, after firing a 40-yard touchdown pass to Max Krause in the second period. Baugh had passed the Eagles silly in the first half, completing 13 of 14 passes. This still left Washington trailing 16-14 at half time, but Krause dashed 71 yards off tackle for a touchdown in the first minute of the third period, and Bill Young snared a short aerial, then ran 47 yards for the final marker just before the stanza ended.

With "Whizzer" White looking more like an All-America than any time since he left Colorado university, the Pittsburgh Pirates lost their second straight game, 27-14 to the New York Giants. The Rocky Mountain halfback scored a touchdown and played good football, but his presence was no obstacle to the Giants' vaunted passing attack. Aerials accounted for three New York touchdowns and set up the other. A crowd of 17,300 turned out.

Green Bay scored 23-17 over Cleveland as the Packers' Herbert-Hutson passing combination accounted for three touchdowns and Clark Hinkle booted two field goals. Attendance was 8,000.

Managers of both teams have been informed of the importance of having their athletes on the field ready for action at 6 o'clock. Darkness is certain to cut short the contest unless play begins early.

The teams are expected to line up something like this.

DETROIT, Sept. 12.—(UP)—If Hank Greenberg hits a home run today it will bring his total to 50 for the season and equal the pace set by Babe Ruth in 1927 when he clouted his record 60.

PAUL DEAN GOOD ENOUGH TO WIN FROM PIRATES

Sore-arm Hurler Makes Pittsburgh Look Weak; Redlegs Slide

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—(UP)—Prestige of the Pittsburgh Pirates plummeted lower today after the National League leaders had been licked by a sore-arm pitcher trying a comeback on a team without a manager.

The pitcher was Paul Dean, who couldn't win in the Texas league. Even the distraction of seeing their manager, Frankie Frisch, walk off the field, fired by Sam Breadon during the game, failed to hamper the St. Louis Cardinals as they rocked the Pirates with a 6-4 setback.

With a 3½ game lead the Pirates, despite their tumbling tactics, may be harder to dislodge than dissenters suppose. They have a five-game advantage on the all-important losing side. Time is running highly in their favor.

They have 23 games left to play and the Cubs, Reds and Giants have only 20 each. If the Pirates blow 12 of their games, the Cubs, for instance, would have to win 14 out of 20 to win the pennant.

In losing to Paul Dean yesterday the leaders didn't even look like a good second division club. They made 12 hits and had Dean in hot water on numerous occasions. In the eighth they had runners on second and third and none out and couldn't score. It took Johnny Rizzo's 12th homer with one on and Al Todd's seventh homer with two on to count three of their four runs. Johnny Mizes' 26th homer with two on tied the score 3-3 and sent Jim Tobin on his way. Arky Vaughan had a perfect day at bat, "4 for 4" but made an error that figured in the late scoring.

Bill Lee Strong

Big Bill Lee pitched his 18th victory and hoisted the Cubs back into undisputed possession of second place with a 2-0 triumph over Cincinnati. He allowed only four hits, beating Paul Derringer who failed for the second time in quest of his 20th win. Stan Hack's single, Billy Herman's double and Hack's homer scored for Chicago.

Luke Hamlin hung the 14th shutout of the season on the Giants as Brooklyn scored a 3-0 shutout. The Giants are now tied with the Phillies for the most shutouts.

The Phils and Bees had a standoff, Philadelphia winning 11-2, then Boston triumphing 3-2. Rookie catcher Charlie Sutcliffe of the Bees and Shortstop Del Young of the Phils engaged in a fist fight over a close play at second. No decision.

The important development in the American League concerned second place, which the Boston Red Sox took over after being tied with the Cleveland Indians for five days. The Red Sox hammered out 19 hits to offset five errors and beat the Athletics, 12-7.

Feller Wins Another

Cleveland dropped to third by splitting with the St. Louis Browns. Bob Feller won No. 15 as the Indians copped the opener, 6-2, but Mel Mazzera's double drove in the winning run which allowed the Browns to take the nightcap, 4-3. Ken Keltner hit homers No. 25 and 26 and made seven straight hits before Russ Van Atta stopped him in the eighth inning of the nightcap.

Washington, behind the seven-hit pitching of Joe Krakauskas, beat the Yankees, 6-3. The defeat trimmed the Yanks lead to 15 games. The Yanks now need seven victories to clinch the pennant.

Hank Greenberg hit homers No. 48 and 49 off Ted Lyons as Detroit won two from the White Sox, 10-1 and 5-3. Greenberg is now one game and one day behind Babe Ruth's record-breaking schedule.

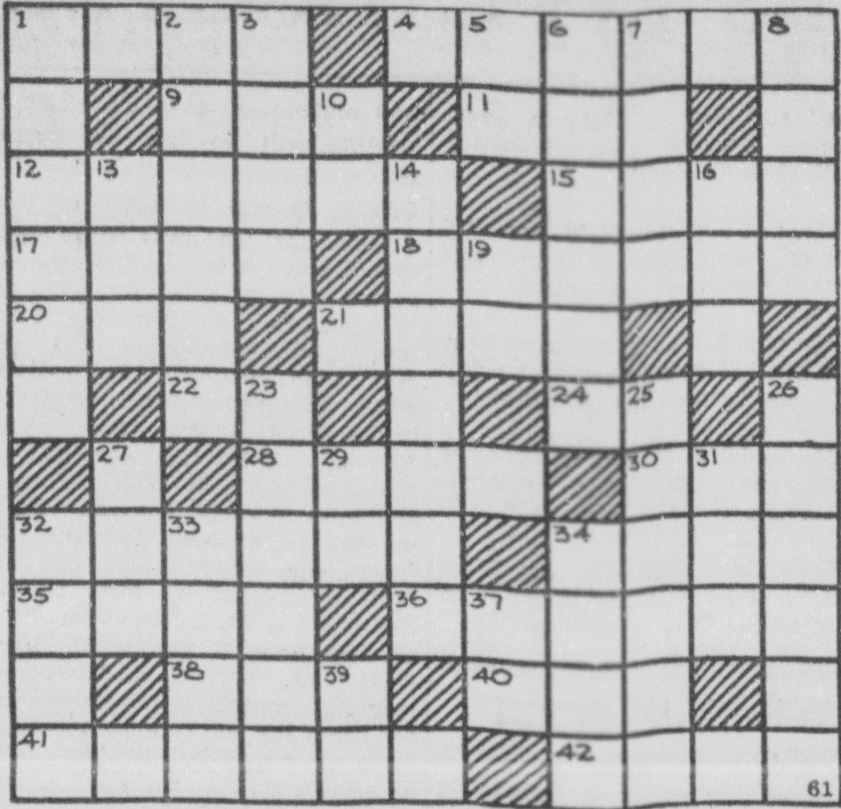

Babe hit his 50th in the Yankees' 134th game of the year, then added 14 more in the last 20 games of the season.

Today's tilt against the Chicago White Sox is Detroit's 134th game.

GRAND JURORS START DELIBERATIONS; TWENTY CHARGES INVESTIGATED

COUNTIANS USE NEW ROOM FOR TWO DAY CONFAB

Single Change Necessary In Lineup; George Shook Named Foreman

Grand jurors of the September term of court started their session Monday with about 20 cases scheduled for consideration. George E. Gerhardt, prosecutor, believes the jury will be in session about two days. George Shook, Jackson township, was named foreman. Only one change was made on the original list drawn for jury duty. George Roof, Pickaway street, was seated on the jury replacing Wilbur Griffith, Walnut township school teacher, who was excused. The jury room in the new addition to the courthouse was put in use for the first time Monday. Other members of the jury are T. M. Fasnough, Scioto township, Maud Hines and Mary Frazier, Walnut; Martha Krimmel, Jackson; Mary Emerson, Pickaway; Irvin Yocman, Perry; O. P. Frazier, Washington; Charles Rose, Deer creek; Mary Porter, Mary Imier and George Hedges, Salt creek; Mrs. W. W. Bauhan, Darby, and Ruth Ward, Circleville.

FAYETTE VOTES ON NUMEROUS OPTION APPEALS

WASHINGTON C. H. Sept. 12.—Petitions have been filed with the board of elections for local option elections and vote on the sale of beer in Washington C. H., Jeffersonville, Bloomingsburg, Union township, Wayne township, Paint township, Jefferson township and Madison township at the November election. The board of elections is checking the petitions to determine if they contain sufficient names of qualified voters for the elections.

CZECHS READY FOR ANY MOVE MADE BY NAZIS

Tiny Republic Braces Itself For Hitler's Speech In Nuremberg

(Continued from Page One) knew they could not avoid trouble that had come to their country just after its 20th birthday. Many people made plans to listen to Hitler's speech tonight while they drink beer and eat sausages. They made reservations at cafes all over the country. The Sudeten area was becoming an acute danger point. There were more than a dozen disorderly incidents during the week-end, of a kind that might cause Germans to say that Czech police could not keep order.

Two Stabbed in Fight

Several persons including a policeman were wounded in a fight between Czechs and Sudeten Germans last night at Reichenburg. Fifteen were injured in a similar fight at Eger. Two Sudeten Germans were stabbed in a fight with Communists at Troppau. It was alleged that at Triebendorf a Sudeten mob forced Czech policemen to leave the town. There were disorders during harvest festivals at Neudek and Konstantinbad.

Sudeten Germans, led by Deputy Georg Wollner, visited Viscount Runciman, British minorities adviser, at Pilsen where he spent the week-end. Several thousand demonstrators cheered and sang, and Wollner addressing Runciman said:

"You are the liberator of 3,500,000 people from oppression and persecution. In 1918 when we put away our arms and turned back home we believed in President Wilson's 14 points and held hope that the principle of self determination would be applied to us. Bitter was our disappointment when our people were attached to Czechoslovakia by the Versailles and St. Germain treaties.

"Today we no longer have confidence in Czechoslovakia's promises. Wollner told Runciman that on March 4, 1919, Czech police killed 20 people.

After Wollner's speech, the crowd marched past Runciman and saluted him with shouts of "Dear Lord, free us from Czechoslovakia!" and "plebiscite!" the crowd shouted for a speech from Runciman, and he said cautiously: "I am honored that so many people have come to greet me. I am trying to bridge the gap between two peoples in a way that will assure peace and give satisfaction to all."

BRITAIN'S ODDS AGAINST MAJOR WAR PASS 4 TO 1

LONDON, Sept. 12.—(UP)—Betting odds, already 4 to 1 against war in the financial district, lengthened today when it was learned that banking circles expected $1,250,000 in gold to arrive from Germany. This would make a total of $22,500,000 from Germany in the last five weeks, and there was a tendency to interpret the flow as an evidence that leading German circles did not expect war.

UNITED STATES HELD MONDAY FOR CHARLES MOUSER, DERBY

Funeral services were held Monday in the Derby M. E. church for Charles J. Mouser, 75, who died Saturday at the home of his son, Floyd, in Derby.

Burial was in the Mt. Sterling cemetery. Two other sons, Everett and Floyd; four daughters, Mrs. Ursel Williams, Mrs. Blanche Gilliland, Mrs. Edna Bower and Mrs. Clyde Jurack, two sisters and a brother survive.

Balthaser Youth Winner Of College Scholarship

A one-year scholarship to Ohio State university in the college of agriculture, consisting of $125 for fees and expenses, has been won by Robert G. Balthaser, of near Ashville, from the Kroger Grocery & Baking Company.

Balthaser was selected, along with 19 other outstanding rural high school graduates from all parts of the state, on the basis of scholarship, character, and activity in agricultural organizations.

Line at War Strength

It was indicated that the work of bringing the Maginot line to war strength was about completed. There were still soldiers on trains arriving at frontier towns, but only a trickle. Great guns, tanks and batteries of field artillery were hidden in the forests.

The only military development was a fire of unknown origin at an army airport at Mourmelon. A hangar containing 12 army trucks was destroyed. No cause was apparent.

Plans were discussed to move the capital into the interior if Paris is menaced. And to evacuate the population for safety from air raids.

Belgium made plans to blow up roads and railways in the path of a possible invader. Frontier guards were heavily reinforced. Switzerland loaded the mine emplacements along the border with explosives, to blow up roads and railways if necessary.

Community Defended

In Nuremberg, Hitler made a strong speech at an army review on Zeppelin meadow. He told the troops that Germany is determined to defend its "racial community" against external forces. Hitler and other previous speakers have emphasized the place of the Sudeten Germans of Czechoslovakia in the "racial community" of the Reich.

The Czechs hurried to completion a bomb-proof shelter in the grounds of the United States legation at Prague. The legation and consulate was swamped with anxious inquiries from Czech-Americans.

The Czechs government, while ordering no actual military movement, was prepared to declare martial law if trouble starts, especially, in case of disorders in the Sudeten area.

An intimation came from Bucharest that Roumania may permit the passage of Soviet troops across her territory. A report on that aspect of the threatened war was given to the French cabinet by Foreign Minister Bonnet.

No Germany isn't expelling Jews. The Nazi government is only making it impossible for them to live there.
